

CITY URGED TO INCREASE FIRE PROTECTION

Today

GET YOUR NEW MODEL
CHEERFUL CHICAGO
TOO MANY MARINES SHOT
BEER, PERHAPS

—By Arthur Brisbane—

New York starts its annual automobile show and other great cities will soon do so. See the new cars, select your model, don't be easily persuaded that you can't afford a car.

An automobile is an investment in pleasure for all the family, in power to see and know your own country, and an investment that adds to life by making time more valuable.

It isn't how many hours you have but how much you can do in one hour that decides life's value.

A Galapagos turtle lives 900 years, but he couldn't see in 5,000-600 years as much as a man with a car can see in a week.

Don't be a Galapagos turtle. Get a new model with the new year.

Chicago would like the rest of the world to know that it starts 1931 cheerfully. That spot, 100 years ago, an Indian trading post, now includes real estate that, according to the Chicago Herald Examiner, "exceeds the entire wealth of Switzerland, Chile and New Zealand, and is greater than the wealth of all the Netherlands, by one billion dollars."

In 1931, Illinois will pay $800,000-000 wages to 500,000 factory workers. It will sell to the world $3,000,000 worth of manufactured goods. It will spend $400,000,000 on new buildings.

In fact, Chicago does not see any good reason to weep.

Revolution in Panama drives out the president, and kills 11, including one American. Revolutions seem to be fashionable with our friends farther south. But that is their business, not ours. As long as they do not interfere with us, we should not interfere with them.

News from Nicaragua is our business. Rebels there killed eight American Marines, making 27 Marines killed by Nicaraguans in the last four years.

Just why our Marines were there, our government knows. The original proposition was that they would stay and help police the country until the new Nicaraguan government became established. It seems to have taken a long time to become established.

Senator King, of Utah, wants our Marines brought out immediately and says we are "using bandits to hold up the investments of our capitalists."

No matter what we have been doing, something should be done now to persuade Nicaraguans responsible that it is a mistake to ambush and shoot American Marines that were not shooting anybody.

Next Tuesday you may hear from the Wickham committee that has been discussing beer and such things.

The president will be told according to prediction that the commission would get around it. They would advise modifying the Volstead act by opening the way for "beer, non-intoxicating in fact."

Perhaps the state will decide what kind of beer is "non-intoxicating in fact" in which case some states will have excellent beer.

Mussolini's talk on the radio, for which he learned how to make a speech in English, produces an excitement.

Of Project

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Carrying a pay load, Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieutenant William S. McLaren hopped off at 5:50 a. m. (EST) today on the first lap of a projected trans-Atlantic flight to Paris, via Bermuda and the Azores.

The Bellanca monoplane Tradewind with Lieutenant McLaren at the controls, sailed away from the Glenn H. Curtiss seaport at North Beach, Queens, curled the port once and headed out toward the tip of Long Island. It was followed a few minutes later by an escort plane, occupied by W. D. Campbell, E. M. Smith and C. J. Strickland, which will accompany the fliers several hundred miles.

Bermuda First Stop
The fliers, traveling on an express schedule, hope to land at Hamilton, Bermuda, at 1:30 this afternoon and tarry three hours. Just before sunset they plan to resume the trip to Horta, Azores, arriving in 21 hours. They plan to make the last lap in 17½ hours and come down on the River Seine within the French capital. The "Tradewind" is equipped with pontoons.

The plane was loaded with 200 pounds of foodstuffs in an effort to demonstrate that ocean flying can be put on a commercial basis. The total distance by Lieutenant McLaren's reckoning is 4,211 miles, including 649 miles to Hamilton, 2,042 miles to Horta and 1,520 miles to Paris.

Mrs. Hart Licensed
Mrs. Hart is a widow and one of the few women to hold an unlimited transport license, having been taught to fly by Lieutenant McLaren. He is a graduate of Annapolis.

Weather Data For Last Year Compiled By
U. S. Observer

January in 1930 was the coldest month with a mean temperature of 27.4 and Jan. 23, last, was the coldest of the old year when 15 below zero was registered. July 21, last was the warmest in 1930 when the temperature stood at 100.

Feb. 26, last, was the wettest day of the year when 1.61 inches of rain fell, and the greatest range of temperature in a given 24 hours last year was July 18 when there was a change range noted of 50 degrees. November was the driest month with but 1.05 inches of rain. The total snowfall for 1930 was 20 inches which is below normal.

Early Spring, Late Fall
The year 1930 had an early spring and a beautiful late fall, with no killing frosts until Oct. 20.

Mr. Copeland declared there was a noticeable absence of electric storms last year. December last was noted for its evenness of temperature, there being little change between day and night.

Creator Of Cell

Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland has revealed his startling secrets concerning artificially created cells to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The savant has experimented in combining cells, the tiny units of which form the bodies of animals, to produce a cell-like unit, the energy of which might be used in combating cancer.

His development has been a national-wide topic of discussion following its introduction to leading scientists at the Cleveland conference of the organization.

BULLETIN
(By Associated Press)
NEW PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—One miner was killed and four were trapped and 15 others escaped when an explosion rocked the shaft of the Midvale Coal Co.'s mine No. 4, three miles west of here today.

Five miners were trapped in No. 4 mine of the Midvale Coal company, three miles south of here, by an explosion at 10:30 a. m. today.

All available ambulances from Dover, New Philadelphia, Uhrichsville, and Dennison were rushed to the mine. Officials of the mine said only five men were in the workings at the time of the blast.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately ascertained. Rescuers who went to the mines, said the entrance was filled with gas, too thick to penetrate except with gas masks. Unmasked rescuers dared not go through it.

Special rescue crews were summoned from Cambridge O. Number 4 mine is a "drift" mine. It is located about a half-mile from Midvale.

The men trapped in the mine were: Mark Renninger, Clyde Ohler, Charles Carnahan, Simon Pejolina and Ludi Memili.

"PAPA" JOFFRE SUCCUMBS AFTER VALIANT FIGHT

Last Of Great French
Leaders Would Have
Been 79 Sunday

KIN AT BEDSIDE
AS DEATH COMES

Failed To Rally From
Coma Which Began
Thursday

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, Jan. 3.—Death came today to Marshal Joffre, last of the great war, after a fortnight's illness in which it was necessary to amputate his left leg. The marshal would have been 79 years old tomorrow.

The end was peaceful. Three members of his family, Mme. Joffre, his son-in-law, M. Lafite, and his brother, Ferdinand, General Issaly, his chief of staff, Colonel Desmazes of his staff, his doctors and a few others were present. He died without coming out from the coma which closed over him on Thursday, his life gradually ebbing since.

Newspapers Informed
The announcement was made at 8:30 a. m. A member of his military household, Captain Saint Cernin, pale with emotion, emerged from the hospital and in a husky voice telling newspapermen: "The marshal is dead, gentlemen." He displayed a bulletin signed by the marshal's physicians, which set the end at 8:23 a. m.

Shortly afterward Professor Leriche, Strasbourg specialist who came to Paris to treat the ailment which finally cut the marshal's life short, appeared and informing the newspapermen of the circumstances of the death, added that the marshal had been in a state of coma practically all this week except for rare intervals of five or ten minutes lucidity.

Despite the early hour a crowd already had assembled outside the hospital. When information of the death was passed to the newspapermen the word "mort"—death—passed through the crowd. Men bared their heads and women made the sign of the cross.

News Spreads Rapidly
The news spread rapidly through Paris, where death had been expected for more than a week. Bells tolled and official circles made preparations for honors in death due the man who in 1914 turned the invaders back from the very gates of Paris in the epic battle of the Marne.

His death removes from the world stage all save three of the great military leaders of the World War. Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and General Erich Ludendorff, of Germany, and General John J. Pershing, of the United States. Of the French leaders of note, only Marshal Pétain, defender of Verdun, still lives, but, unlike Foch or Joffre, he never was in supreme command of the French armies. One by one, Haig, Cadorna, Foch and others have passed from the scene.

Premier Steeg was the first to arrive at the hospital after announcement of the marshal's death. He

MEMORIAL UNIT TO DRAFT NOTE TO PRESIDENT

Hoover To Be Formally
Invited To Attend
Harding Rites

MARION, Jan. 3.—A formal invitation to President Hoover to participate in dedication of the $800,000 Harding Memorial will be drafted when the Harding Memorial association meets here Monday, it was announced today.

Call for the meeting was issued after Mr. Hoover indicated from Washington that he would join in the long-delayed dedication when he was formally invited to do so.

The monument was erected by public subscription in memory of President Warren G. Harding and was completed two and one half years ago.

The Memorial association's steps to issue a formal invitation to President Hoover clears up a misunderstanding that developed a week ago after the president had announced his readiness to deliver the dedicatory address. His announcement said that he awaited a formal invitation.

The secretary of the association said that the invitation already had been issued and that another would not be forthcoming. As a result of the misunderstanding, former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, president of the association, urged a meeting of trustees to draft the invitation.

DAVIDSON, MALLOY
RECEIVE REPORTS

Findings To Be Submitted
To City Council
Tuesday

Need for immediate fire protection for outlying districts of the City of Salem through the addition of at least two new firemen and the purchase of additional fire-fighting equipment was outlined in recommendations received today by Mayor J. M. Davidson and Fire Chief V. L. Malloy from the Ohio Inspection bureau.

The report, based on investigations conducted here recently by H. J. Manning, chief engineer of the state bureau, will be submitted to city council when the legislative body convenes for its first meeting in 1931, next Tuesday. Immediate action on the recommendations will be asked by Malloy, the fire chief announced today.

Submitted to Mayor, Chief The recommendations were submitted to the mayor and fire chief by T. B. Sellers, Ohio Inspection bureau manager. The present system of fire protection for the newly annexed areas of the municipality was declared inadequate, purchase of a new pumper fire truck and the addition of new firemen being suggested by Sellers as the best solution to the present situation.

"In his recent annexation of additional territory to the City of Salem, an obligation has been assumed which is not particularly easy to fill under existing circumstances," Sellers' report stated. "The possibility of affecting those areas fire protection equipment to that accorded residential districts appears remote."

"It is also obvious," the report continues, "that the only really satisfactory solution is available through the extension of water mains of proper size to the new territory and the installation of a sufficient number of fire hydrants to cover the property located therein. This proposition is further complicated by the fact that, there are no mains extending to the original

HOPE TO AVOID EXTRA SESSION

Senate Leaders Confident
Business Can Be Completed

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Senate administration leaders expressed confidence today even in the face of new opposition threats, that the necessary business of congress could be completed by March 4, and an extra session avoided.

An impression was current there would be a statement shortly from President Hoover on his intentions regarding the world court. Leaders have held that a definite assurance he would not call a special session for its ratification would simplify disposal of the legislative program.

The new eastern railroad consolidation plan had brought a fresh extra session threat from Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, who said he would "do all I can to force an extra session to obtain an investigation" unless the house passed the Couzens resolution to suspend all rail unification for a period.

MARSHAL JOFFRE PASSES ON

The striking figures in the World War which survived that terrible struggle, statesmen as well as military leaders, are passing one by one—Hals, Wilson, Diaz, Clemenceau, Foch, Von Tirpitz—and now "Papa" Joffre has answered the final call.

Joseph Jacques Joffre, marshal of France, was a product of the Ecole Polytechnique in Paris, the "west point of France," which he left to obtain a temporary appointment as a subaltern in the artillery corps engaged in defending Paris against the invading host in the Franco-Prussian war—a defense he saw, rendered vain and the victorious teutons tramping the streets of the French capital to force the treaty exacted by the iron chancellor—in the "Hall of Mirrors" at Versailles.

Following the war, Joffre resumed his studies in the Ecole Polytechnique from which he graduated and entered a regiment of engineers. He advanced, step by step, performing brilliantly in the French colonies, and the part he played in an expedition against Formosa brought him the decoration of a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. A long period of colonial service intervened before his return to France.

The second conflict early in the World war found Joffre backed almost to the walls of Paris. His retreat before the advancing Germans had been masterly, its resistance increasing day by day while the German offensive was weakening for the lack of energetic command. Thirty miles from Paris, Joffre halted, Gallieni began his counter-offensive and the retreating command under Joffre turned to advance against the enemy and, with the assistance of the English under Wilson, drove the army of Von Kluck back across the Marne. This was the first battle of the Marne, and the decisive victory won by him brought him the title of "Marshal of France," bestowed for the first time since the Franco-Prussian war, and he became commander-in-chief of the French armies. It brought him another title, that of "Papa Joffre," lovingly bestowed upon him by the millions of the soldiery of France.

Thus far, Joffre had to contend with alien enemies only, but almost from his elevation to commander-in-chief, he was compelled to fight not only the foreign invaders, but fault-finding and criticism in the capital, and when the French command about Verdun was almost annihilated, he was superseded by Foch as commander-in-chief of the French army, the deposed commander being appointed "technical adviser to the government."

The marshal's great victory in France was that won on the Marne, but he had won another here in America, when he headed the military mission to the United States, following our entry into the war, to impress upon our people how greatly France had been bled and her pressing need for man power. His victory here was in the winning of the hearts of the American people. In recognition of his services to France both at home and abroad, he was made one of the French academy's "forty immortals" and he was given the "Medaille Militaire," a much greater honor than the grand cross of the "Legion of Honor" bestowed upon him four years before.

The last ten years of his life were embittered by the controversy waged by certain so-called military experts, who urged that the credit for the victory of the Marne should go to Gallieni rather than to Joffre. The records, however, show that he was the orders which started the advance that swept the enemy before it and recognition for the victory and the honors it entailed went to him and history will probably leave the record as it stands today.

PERSONAL ASSURANCE

It has become almost a manifestation of naivete to express astonishment over anything accomplished by means of the radio, but exception is demanded by listeners who heard Premier Mussolini speak to a world audience New Year's day. It was impossible to avoid the realization that the occasion had double significance: It was a personal message from Italy's dictator to the world, and it was a forceful example of the new world acquaintanceship that the press and the radio have made possible.

Premier Mussolini spoke in English, clearly and with an obvious understanding of the language, which he has learned within the last few years. His message, intended to promote better understanding between Italy and the United States, was of similar import to the rest of the world. The responses that will be made to it as it is studied in newspapers or recalled through audible impressions probably will show a more urgent desire than ever to understand Italy and sympathize with the purposes of Premier Mussolini. He has been interviewed and described many times in such a way as to reflect discredit upon his policies in the sight of peace-loving people, but a few moments of speaking—personal assurance, as it were—help to discount unfavorable impressions existing without firm foundations.

"Neither I nor my government nor the Italian people desire to bring about a war," was the most important single sentence in Premier Mussolini's message. His personal reasons were: "I fought in the war as a soldier in the rank. . . I know what war means. . . In the years that have since elapsed and at the present time both as man and as head of the government, I have had before me a panorama of political, economic and moral consequences of the war. . . How can anyone suppose that with this twofold experience I would consider with anything but horror the prospect of another war even if it were to arise between two countries only? A war nowadays would inevitably become a general war. Civilization itself would be endangered."

Somehow or other when Il Duce speaks there is an inclination to believe him. International relationships may not be made any safer by the opportunity to get messages before the people by word of mouth, but at least they will become more direct.

What Others Say

LATIN AMERICA IN LEAGUE
Few more significant signs of the times at Geneva have come from shores of Lake Lemana than the present sojourn of Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations in South America. Sir Eric is now in Argentina. He is en route to Chile and Peru, and will thence proceed to Central America and Cuba. There is method in his wanderings.

Apart from the United States, four American states—Mexico, Brazil, Ecuador and Costa Rica—are not members of the League. Argentina's status has remained obscure for ten years. In the first Irigoyen administration at Buenos Aires she joined the League, but her congress never ratified the accession. An Argentinian delegation withdrew from the first general assembly at Geneva because the council refused to admit former enemy powers on the same footing as the allies—a situation long since remedied. But Argentina's position remains undefined. Nominally she is still in the League. Actually she takes no part in its affairs, but her dues for years are in arrears.

Sir Eric Drummond is bent not only upon clearing up Argentina's relationship with Geneva, but upon tightening up the League's notoriously creaking bolts elsewhere in Latin America. Naturally, too, the secretary general wants to look the new revolutionary governments in the face in Buenos Aires, Lima, La Paz, Rio de Janeiro and Guatemala City and ascertain if they are friendly or hostile. Also, he is sure to leave no stone unturned to secure the adhesion of Costa Rica, Ecuador and Mexico, in all of which countries new regimes, and possibly a new League psychology have come into existence since decided to boycott Geneva.

It was just two years ago this week that the League attempted, but failed, to substitute a Geneva decision of a purely inter-American controversy for Pan-American arbitration. Bolivia and Paraguay were on the verge of war. The League council, meeting at Lugano, promptly urged action looking to a peaceful settlement, but the Pan-American conference on conciliation and arbitration happened, almost coincidentally, to be meeting in Washington.

Upon the strong appeal of Secretary of State Kellogg, both Bolivia and Paraguay accepted the good offices of the conference and eventually composed their differences. Justice requires it to be said that Geneva, throughout the intervening nine months of negotiation, lent its own influence in the direction of an arbitral settlement. But history will record that Bolivia and Paraguay stacked arms primarily in consequence of the pressure for peace exerted by their sister American republics.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Purely personal piffle. The odor of bananas is reminiscent of a riding habit, gives me a feeling of complete inferiority. I always enter a Pullman diner expecting somebody to recognize me. But nobody ever has. I have never been an active pall-bearer.

My favorite feminine name is Hope. A favorite masculine name is Michael. I am unable to use a pen without smudging my fingers. I'm far from a goody-goody but have a curious collection of old fashioned scruples instilled by a grandmother. And observed from purely sentimental reasons.

Mary Boland's my favorite comedienne. Ziegfeld and I have at least one telephone quarrel a year. After the last one he sent me a bottle of perfume. One of my intimates is H. T. Webster, whom I have seen, but once in five years. But we exchange insulting letters regularly. He addresses me as Oscar. I call him Harold.

I have never found a satisfactory shoe buttoner. Maybelle Manning has the most distinctive handwriting of any lady I know. The most indecipherable is that of Gilbert White, the portrait painter. I have a collection of safety razors. I was one of the first two reporters to interview the Wright brothers.

And I spoke of them as "impractical dreamers." The first city I ever visited was St. Joseph, Missouri. I have been in every city of importance in America save Portland, Maine. The most expensive hotel I ever stopped was The Whitehall in Palm Beach, Florida. My caricature is not on display at Sardis.

The greatest reaction from anything I have written was about a Mexican shepherd in the Cosmoopolitan. The article I thought best was printed in a Sunday newspaper and caused no comment whatever. I like to sleep in old houses with wind-creaking shutters.

The only tune I don't whistle off-key is "In the Good Old Summer-time." In strange hotels I eavesdrop on quarreling in an adjoining room. And I have listened in on some dandies. The best of all was in The Biltmore in Los Angeles. I despise gambling and am a poor loser.

I received 3,187 cards last Christmas. The most polished gentleman I ever met was an international crook, now spending 30 years in British gaol. Nothing makes me laugh on the screen like Buster Keaton's "dead pan." I enjoy getting to a theatre early to watch the seating of the audience. But I want to be first out when the curtain falls.

When I become extremely agitated the sides of my neck break out in a rash. And my voice squeaks. I am continually stepping off curbs unexpectedly and biting my tongue. I wouldn't ride up to the top of the Chrysler building and look down for anything. Neither my wife nor I put. We speak our minds and forget it.

I read Ed Howe's Monthly from cover to cover regularly. Hiccups always frighten me. The man who saved me from disaster in the market crash was the late Will Hogg. He predicted it three years before it happened, to the very month.

I have been introduced to Charles M. Schwab three times—at a Rotary luncheon in Indianapolis, on the promenade at Monte Carlo and in the lobby of the Ritz, New York. Still he doesn't know me, which gives you an idea of my devastating personality. I believe the most promising composer of the moment is Sidney Rosenberg. The show loved most this winter is "Grand Hotel." The book, Arnold Bennett's "Imperial Palace."

A young lady who saw me passing through the lobby of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco wrote: "You have about as much sex appeal as Lincoln's Gettysburg speech." The only people who have hoodwinked me are those I trusted. And I've always managed to even things. I do not believe New York theatres try to check the ticket speculating evil. Night clubs depress me. I chew five cakes of a gum at a time if nobody is looking.

For two years I have had a whopping standing offer for a 15 minute weekly talk over the radio. I am never without old-fashioned peppermint stick candy. My wife can always tell if I have had some unexpected windfall—the old McIntyre gleam. I'm an awful washout at dinner parties.

2,000 Realty Deals Listed During Year

LISBON, Jan. 3.—Approximately 2,000 real estate transfers were filed for record in Columbiana county during 1930, which is about 16 percent less than filings for 1929, according to County Recorder Paul H. Smith.

Between 9,000 and 10,000 chattel mortgages were placed in the files, and the record shows that 1,553 real estate mortgages were filed during the old year.

Recorder Smith will retire from office Monday next, and will be succeeded by Mrs. Edith Elliott, who was elected at the last November election.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Modern Life—A Lazy One

There is no doubt that man is a slave to machinery. If it brings leisure to those who labor, this marks a beneficial change. But there are certain mechanical devices in common use that may be detrimental to health.

Modern living makes it possible for us to remain indoors all winter. City folks rarely go out doors. The walk to the necessities is done away with and the ordering is done by telephone. With the advent of radio even entertainment is brought into our homes. Every thing favors the lazy life.

It is common knowledge that the health of the nation as a whole is lowered during the winter months. I do not believe that this state of affairs is due to the weather. More likely it is due to our habits during this period.

Even though our homes are light and airy, we do not derive the beneficial rays of the sun as we do during the summer months. Sitting in sunlight that is transmitted through the windowpane is of little value. Ordinary window glass does not transmit the invisible rays of sunlight which are so essential to health.

There has been an attempt to substitute quartz glass panes for the ordinary windowpane. Quartz glass transmits the ultra-violet portion of the sun's rays, a very desirable thing. As yet, for various reasons, the application of this theory has not been entirely practical.

Let us assume that I am correct in laying our poor health during the winter to our mode of living. If it is not due to the weather, how can we improve our health?

First, let me advise against overheating your home. The normal temperature of our bodies is about 98.6 F. The temperature indoors should not exceed 70 degrees. Regulate the temperature in your home to a constant level. Where possible, do this in your office or the place in which you do your work. You will feel better for carrying out this program. Such a life will tune up your body to resist colds and infections.

Get as much of the outdoor sunshine as is possible. Leave the car in the garage at least part of the time.

There is a tendency to overeat in the winter time. It is true that food supplies the heat which is more in demand in winter. But this is no excuse for overeating. Eat a balanced diet, plenty of good food, but not too much.

There is no need of consuming large quantities of patent medicines during the winter. Your supply of lime, iron and phosphorus should be derived from your food stuffs and not from bottles. Eat plenty of green vegetables, fresh fruits and fresh milk. Salads should grace the table during the winter months as during the summer.

Above all do not blame the weather for your cold or illness. It is usually your own fault. Carelessness is the chief cause of illness.

Answers to Health Queries
MRS. O. E. Q.—Which is better for a convalescent, sleeping until 10 a. m., or an early morning auto drive?

A—Early morning drive provided the patient can get proper sleep at night.

M. G. C. Q.—What are some of the nerve-building foods?

A—Is it harmful to smoke two cigarettes daily if one is more or less nervous otherwise?

A—Eat of a well-balanced diet and the nervous system will be properly nourished and taken care of. Eat more fruit and vegetables avoiding too much meat, as well as excessive tea and coffee.

2—Not necessarily so but might be a good idea to stop the habit entirely, at least for a time and see whether or not there are any results.

MRS. H. L. Q.—What do you advise for hives?

A—First correct your diet. A nervous condition, constipation, and, in some instances, a kidney condition may be responsible for hives. It would be well to have a urinalysis made.

H. U. U. Q.—What can I do for a red nose? It remains red both winter and summer.

A—A red nose is usually due to circulatory condition caused by a run-down state of health. Try to build up your general health and you will probably notice an improvement.

2—Your diet is important. Cut down on sugar, starches and coffee. Avoid constipation.

MRS. E. E. Q.—What causes nervousness? I have been nervous for seven years.

A—Nervousness is caused by a run-down state of health. Try to build up your general health and you will probably benefit generally.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, January 4
Sunday's horoscope is a most interesting one, with many of the planetary configurations denoting lively and progressive conditions in many directions. Mystical, spiritual, and ecclesiastical matters are stressed, with prosperity and advancement promised. But there are important upheavals and changes imminent, accompanied by temporary setbacks or postponements. Be careful with papers and law.

Those whose birthday it is are at the crossroads of a most important time of life, with large matters at stake. Change, radical decisions, ambition and advancement loom on the immediate horizon, accompanied by stern oppositions and probable disappointments as well as personal annoyances. But it is a year of large opportunity and possibilities for achievement and prestige. A child born on this day should have a splendid assortment of talents and faculties fitting it for a prominent place in life.

For Monday, January 5
Monday's astrological forecast is quite a contradictory one, with good promise of favorable circumstances and opportunities, but these must be improved by wise judgment, clever methods and patient application and resistance to stubborn obstacle and frustration. However personal adaptability and popularity may assist over these obstructions and private pleasure and social activity offset the passing adversities.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of some opposition and conflicting conditions, with progress and prosperous issues dependent upon determination to overcome obstacles with fortitude and earnest effort, these assisted by cleverness and good judgment. Personal affiliations and popularity may prove compensatory, as social, domestic and romantic affairs will be lively and happy. A child born on this day should be endowed with many social and humane qualities and graces which should assist it to overcome obstacles and difficulties.

THE DAY In Sports

WHAT WILL 1931 BRING?
IN THE GOLFING WORLD

Like Alexander, Robert Tyre Jones had no more words to conquer. He left amateur golf for the talking movies, will now be forced to pay income tax and leaves the realm of amateur goldom with hopes of disclosing to addicts of the game another super-golfer during the season of 1931. The retirement of the supreme master leaves the game in an interesting condition and Americans look forward to 1931 with anticipation of an unusual period of golfing entertainment. The national amateur championships, scheduled at the Beverly Hill country club, Chicago, in September, will bring out all the amateur stars of the country, intent on succeeding the pudgey Atlanta barrister on the championship throne. The U. S. Open will be played over the course of the Inverness club at Toledo with 1,400 expected. But Bobby will in all probability not be among the competitors.

What will 1931 bring in the field of other athletic competition? Is the question now being asked by boxing promoters, football experts, baseball magnates and participants and all other lines of sporting endeavor. If the present year reaches the great success of 1930 in the majority of sports, all will be satisfied. Even the most critical of public fans can't be pessimistic about happenings in 1930, for with the exception of boxing, it was a great 12 months in the United States have just passed through.

H. H. Ramsay, America's great golfing official, predicts the greatest season in history of the game for 1931 with new champions certain to be crowned both here and abroad. The Salem Golf club will have a banner year, Donald McLeay, professional, promises, for its members are now keeping in trim with practice sessions at "Mac's" indoor golf school and driving course. In all sports there will be changes, for better, mostly.

There are bound to be developments in collegiate football. The logic of the coaches who assembled at New York in their annual meeting cannot be denied and their initiative actions in demands for changes in the game's playing code will have their effect. The quiet words spoken at the meeting came when Hugo Bezdek said, "Coaches must take steps to correct football evils or have reforms thrust upon them." This is irrevocably true. It is the coach that must act or the professor of languages or biology who probably is a member of the college council and has much power in school activities will soon swing his scepter over athletics and wreak havoc with this our greatest fall and winter sport. None knows the game better than the coach, so it should be the coach that has authority to make changes, where changes are needed in football.

Baseball last year suffered only slightly from its popularity of preceding seasons. The year 1931 will see the stadia crowded once again, the parks will be jammed with thousands of enthusiasts and the game will prosper.

Sayings that will go down in history—"Rules will not change or wipe out proselytizing and subsidization of football players... that change must come from the heart and not the rule book."

We in Salem look forward to another banner year in Salem High athletics. With Coach Floyd Stone directing the school's athletic destinies, its teams have gone through a three year period with great success. Joe M. Kelley at the Memorial building is directly responsible for the popularity of city league athletic activities and both city and scholastic sporting events will increase in both popularity and worth in the coming year.

Salem Loses Decision By 28-25 Score After Leading Entire Game

Handicapped by disqualification of two of its outstanding stars, by the personal foul rule, Salem High, after outplaying the opposition for more than two periods, lost a nerve-racking contest to the powerful Alliance High quintet by a 28-25 score at Barnes auditorium in Alliance Friday night.

A three-minute overtime period was necessary to decide the verdict, the game closing with the teams knotted at 23-23. Salem held the lead in scoring throughout the contest and was ahead, 15-1, at the end of the first half.

Out of this setback, in which the Stomenen distinctly demonstrated that they are yet to be feared from in Northeastern Ohio basketball, rose Tommy French as one of Coach Floyd W. Stone's outstanding hardwood artists. French was the Red and Black's leading performer on both offense and defense and stood out head and shoulders above any player on the court even in defeat.

Smith, Early Out On Fouls

William (Bill) Smith and Norman Early, Salem forward and center, respectively, were ejected from the contest on four personal fouls early in the fourth period and from then on Alliance staged a spurt that soon advanced the home-towners as a real threat for victory honors. The Quakers, however, maintained their lead until the last minute of play but were out-lucked and outplayed.

Play in the extra period was merely a formality, Alliance holding a decided edge after the disqualification of Early and Smith. A field goal and a foul 30 seconds after overtime was under way gave Alliance a three-point lead but French brought hopes to Salem's fandom with a long shot from the center of the floor. It was Salem's last basket, the Stark countians connecting for two more foul points to clinch the verdict.

The first half was clearly all Salem, Alliance never threatening the Quakers at any time of 16 minutes.

Salem Quintet Winner In 24-23 Contest Played As Preliminary

Salem High's fast-stepping reserve quintet nosed out the Alliance junior varsity, 24-23 in a hard-fought preliminary at Alliance Friday night.

The Quakers led throughout the contest, Alliance never being able to overcome a slight lead the Salemites piled up early in the contest.

The visitors' margin never exceeded four points, a rally by Alliance closing the gap late in the game.

Gordy Scullion's floor work was one of the features of the battle, while Frank Culler and Pauline scored on offensive work for the winners.

Relations Resumed As County Rivals Clash In Important Battle

Salem and East Liverpool, principals in every Columbiana county basketball championship race for years up until two seasons ago, resume athletic relationship in three contests scheduled at the Salem High gymnasium tonight. Reserve, varsity and girls' teams representing the rivals clash during the evening's program.

Liverpool, performing in two games, one against an alumni machine and the second last night against Rayen High of Youngstown, is boasting a combination that looks as a great threat to Salem High's ambitions of attaining another county cage title. Under the tutelage of Tom Dixon, former Susquehanna college court luminary, the Ceramic City will invade the Quaker gym the under-dogs but claim an equal chance in the contest.

Potters Trim Alumni

The Potters defeated its ex-high opponents, 19-15 in two overtime periods last Saturday, showed up strong on defense but were null and void on offense. McNutt, a letterman of 1928 who was out of school last year, looks as the best of Dixon's forwards while Jimmy Bowen, another veteran is touted as a great offensive player, too. Tom Snape, lank center, will be pitted against Norman Early of Salem and a hard-fought duel is expected between this pair. Snape showing great promise, Dick Heddlston, star grinder of last season, and Captain Gil Simpson will form Dixon's guard combination.

The Potters anticipate a hard-fought tussle tonight, it being the first major game involving county opponents this season.

The last game played between Salem and Liverpool cage teams was played in the fore part of the 1928-29 season. Salem winning a close battle which ended when former Coach Joe Hurst withdrew his Liverpool quintet from the court in protest to a decision made by Referee Gross of New Philadelphia. Salem High holds five consecutive county championships.

Reserves Favored

The reserve game will be the first played, Coach Floyd Stone anticipating a victory over the Potters in this contest also. Against the Canfield varsity the youthful Quaker combine showed great power in rolling up a 34-13 score, Gordy Scullion, Lawrence Weigand, Purn Sidinger

BERMUDA FIRST STOP IN FLIGHT

His and a former navy flier, holding a commission in the naval reserve. Although Lieut. MacLaren was at the controls on the get-away, Mrs. Hart was expected to replace him soon after the start and do the bulk of the piloting. Both were dressed in spotless aerial tugs, unsoiled by the grime of land take-offs, and Mrs. Hart wore a five leaf clover, a rabbit's foot and an Indian penny as emblems of good luck.

Considering the early hour, a fair sized crowd was present to wish them bon voyage. Mrs. Cora Mansfield, mother of Mrs. Hart, and Mrs. Georgia Gwynne, her sister, were on hand, as well as department of commerce inspectors and flying friends from Newark, N. J., and Jersey City.

They carried with them a chart of the route drawn by Deudor Costa after he and Maurice Belente had landed on their Paris-New York flight. In case the river traffic is too heavy, they will come down on a small lake just outside the city.

With a desire to prove that ocean flying can be put on a paying commercial basis, the pilots loaded the "Tradewind" with about 250 pounds of mail and foodstuffs, the first cargo load to be started across the Atlantic. The mail was cleared out of New York and was destined for stamp collectors along the way.

Weather bureau officials predicted favorable weather for them on the first lap, with a 15-mile-an-hour tailwind, speed them along. Ordinarily, weather over the Atlantic is not ideal for flying at this time of year.

Mrs. Hart is 27 years old.

I. C. C. TO GET RAIL PROJECT

Commission Expected To Get Pact Within Next Few Days

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The four-system eastern railroad consolidation plan was expected to be presented for approval of the interstate commerce commission within a few days after the meeting in New York yesterday to ratify the agreement.

While some opposition already is apparent in congress, it was pointed out that the final decision in approving or denying the proposed consolidation rests with the commission. Unofficial reports indicate that railroad men believe at least six of the members of this independent group favor the general outline of the merger plan.

The New York meeting of ratification was among executives of the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate. It was necessary to draft the final application for submission to the interstate commerce commission, which is expected to receive the formal request early next week.

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, chairman of the senate interstate committee, has been the most outspoken of congressional opponents of the plan. He opened his attack soon after President Hoover announced approval of the consolidation. Couzens, however, has not indicated definitely whether or not he intends to press for an investigation of the railroad plan.

Whatever future history may say of Mussolini it must admit that his country was fortunate in getting him for a ruler, at a time when the choice was dictatorship or chaos.

Imagine Italy or Russia, without a powerful central government.

The American Society of Naturalists discusses "The Future of Man in the Light of His Past."

If you judged man by his past, full of murder, cheating, cannibalism, brutality, selfishness, you wouldn't hope much for his future. He must be judged by his progress.

William F. Ogburn, University of Chicago, says that man of the future may remain a child until 40 years old. Many do that now, and long after 40.

Dr. Ogburn thinks morality as we understand it, will disappear and law will become less and less important. He is mistaken about morality. Respect for law will be inborn, so that men will do what they ought to do, as ants and bees do now, being millions of years older than we are.

In the year 2500, according to Dr. East of Harvard, the earth will be inhabited by one hybrid race, a mixture of all races, stabilized and permanent. That, however, will not happen by the year 2500 or by the year 5000.

Men have been on the earth already for 40 million years according to Prof. Osborn of the Museum of Natural History.

To change a human to a standardized human would take many times 2,500 years.

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN

Rev. George D. Keister, pastor.
(All services held at the Memorial building on East State street.)

Second Sunday after Christmas
Sunday school, 9:45 (Luke 1:1-80)
H. E. Smith, Supt.

Big tasks demand big men. It was a mighty undertaking to prepare the way for the coming of the Savior of the world. So we see God is equal to any work. So we see His mighty hand in the birth and life of John the Baptist, who came as a forerunner of Jesus.

The righteous and holy life of this messenger of preparation was evidence of the way that he accepted this labor for the world's Messiah. Every Christian can help a little to prepare some heart for Christ. The Holy Spirit of God is the moving power, but God can use us to help open the way.

Morning worship, 11 a. m.—Sermon, "Facing the year 1931 as Christians."

Each year presents its problems and labors. It is well that we know not the full schedule of the coming year. Such knowledge might cause fear and trembling. With tense look and clenched fist may we think of the future. With indifferent spirit and careless manner may we think of the new year. With implicit faith and unwavering confidence in our personal Savior, Jesus Christ, may we accept the days, weeks and months of the new year. There is no doubt that a Christian has unfailing weapons to wage the battle of life, and unfailing resources when tempted and tried.

THE CHURCH OF OUR SAVIOUR

870 E. State St., Rev. Christian A. Roth, pastor.

Services Sunday, Jan. 4, the Second Sunday after Christmas. Celebration of the Holy Communion 7:30. Church school 9:30. Morning prayer and sermon 11.

Tuesday, Jan. 6, is the Feast of the Epiphany or the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles. Celebration of the Holy Communion on that day at 10 a. m. In former years the collect, epistle and gospel for the Feast of the Circumcision was used on the second Sunday after Christmas. The revisers of the prayer book have provided a new collect, epistle and gospel for this Sunday which will be used for the first time at the service Sunday morning.

The collect speaks of "the new Light of the Incarnate Word," and at once we grasp the message. Christ is the New Light and He enlightens every man that cometh into the world. There are no dark nights, but sooner or later they fade away. We love them and cherish them, but they do not endure. This New Light is never dimmed. It shines day and night. It penetrates the darkness of unbelief and fear. It cannot be obscured by fog or cloud. It is there before us whether we realize it or not, and it shines upon the past and brings precious memories. It is the world's Light, but it is also the Light that enlightens every man. It is the Light of Truth, the Light of Faith, the Light of Love. It never dazzles us by its brilliance, yet it reveals the dark places and the dangers of the way. And oh, how it comforts us! It warms the heart and inspires the spirit and gives life to the body.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL

THERE is Work and Prosperity ahead in 1931 . . . We are received into the abundant embrace of a new decade. The band strikes up in a major key.

The Thirties, overflowing with untold secrets, sing out promises of peace; of health and wealth and beauty. The mood of our nation, from sea to sea, echoes a justified optimism. Doors are closed to the chronic malcontents.

Extensive though our territories, we have room only for those who hope, and those who strive to fulfill their hopes. If there must be a struggle, let's call it a game and play it like sportsmen. If there must be obstacles, let's rejoice in our power to vault them. We have limitless material to work with; we have the tools; we have strong bodies; skillful hands, rich minds. It remains for us but to will it, and Prosperity will shower us with her favors.

We are just beginning to tap our mines, forests, fields and waters. Agriculture is regaining its stability. The farmer, long discouraged, has himself expressed a new confidence.

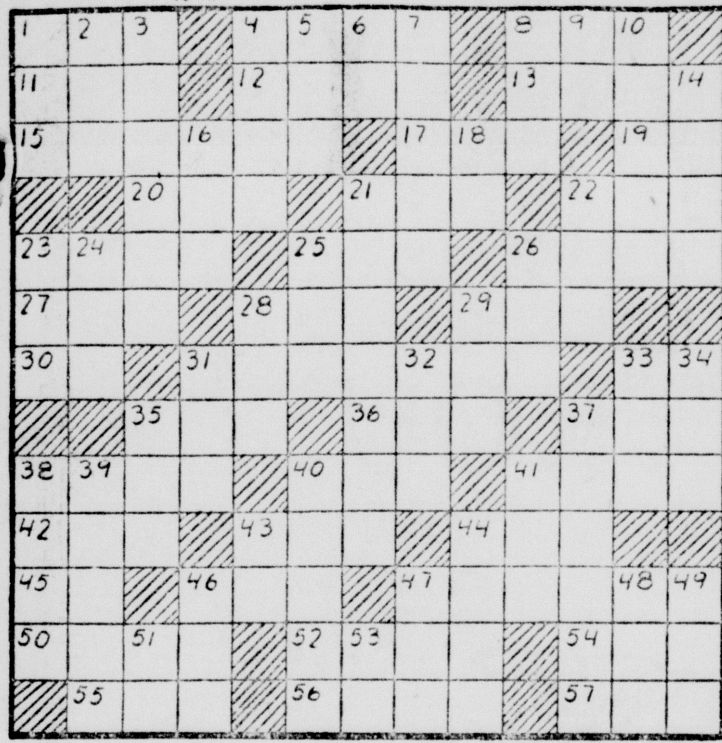

The large industrial corporations are following a program of expansion. The railroads and the banks are notably sound. Methods of production and distribution are constantly improving. Standards of living are being constantly raised. There are facts!

They represent conditions which we shall mould into a future more glorious than our most glorious past. Our assured prosperity will be a stepping-stone to the New World paradise of which our ancestors dreamed.

MOVIES

In Talkie Role

Kay Johnson plays the leading role in two talking features scheduled in Salem theaters next week.

"The Spoilers", talkie version of the silent drama famous for its realistic battle scenes and just recently released by Hollywood for production in American playhouses, will be shown at the Grand theater next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The drama, produced by Paramount, stars Gary Cooper, Kay Johnson and Betty Compson. Kay Johnson, who has had one of the most meteoric rises in talkie in the history of synchronized productions, appears as the leading feminine player in two talking vehicles, playing, in addition to the "Spoilers", in "Madame Satan". Reginald Denny, who appeared in talkies for the first time in "Three Little French Girls" is cast opposite Miss Johnson in the second drama, scheduled at the State Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Highly Rated Pictures
Together with "Madame Satan" and "The Spoilers", the State and Grand will feature two other highly rated pictures, "The Princess and the Plumber", returning Charles Farrell to the screen in another romantic role, will show at the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday, while "Anybody's War", with Moran and Mack, the noted comedy duo starred, will be at the State three days starting Thursday.

"Madame Satan" pictures Miss Johnson as a society bell who marries Denny, a harum-scarum youngster who tries, but does everything except settle down to work. Denny, seldom at home, is finally abandoned by his wife who then wages a campaign to win him back from an actress-dancer, played by Lillian Roth. Roland Young, as Denny's partner in many misadventures, has a leading part also. "The Spoilers" is a classic picture of Rex Beach's famous book. William Boyd, Harry Green, James Kirkwood, Slim Sumner, Oscar Apfel and other famous screen stars appear in the drama.

Anybody's War
Moran and Mack's experiences in the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War are recounted in "Anybody's War". Joan Peers and Neil Hamilton head the romantic theme of the picture which is built almost entirely about the humorous partners with the love drama woven into the picture to add much to its entertaining value.

Maureen O'Sullivan, who first gained for herself a place in the talkie limelight by her performance opposite John McCormack in the latter's screen debut, plays opposite Farrell in "Princess and the Plumber". Miss O'Sullivan, as the title indicates, is princess with Farrell playing the part of a plumber who is sent to the heroine's home in the Balkans to make improvements in the castle.

The Royal again schedules a western thriller, this time Hoot Gibson being starred in "Trigger Tricks".

"War Nurse" will make its final stay here tonight and is entertainment of outstanding value at the State. "The Squealer", showing Jack Holt in a gangster picture, is at the Grand.

GET YOUR NEW MODEL
CHEERFUL CHICAGO
TOO MANY MARINES SHOT
BEER, PERHAPS
—By Arthur Brisbane—

New York starts its annual automobile show and other great cities will soon do so. See the new cars, select your model, don't be easily persuaded that you can't afford a car.

An automobile is an investment in pleasure for all the family, in power to see and know your own country, and an investment that adds to life by making time more valuable.

It isn't how many hours you have but how much you can do in one hour that decides life's value.

A Galapagos turtle lives 900 years, but he couldn't see in 5,000-6,000 years as much as a man with a car can see in a week.

Don't be a Galapagos turtle. Get a new model with the new year.

Chicago would like the rest of the world to know that it starts 1931 cheerfully. That spot, 100 years ago, an Indian trading post, now includes real estate that, according to the Chicago Herald Examiner, "exceeds the entire wealth of Switzerland, Chile and New Zealand, and is greater than the wealth of all the Netherlands, by one billion dollars."

In 1931, Illinois will pay $800,000-900,000 to 500,000 factory workers, and sell to the world $3,000,000 worth of manufactured goods. It will spend $400,000,000 on new buildings.

In fact, Chicago does not see any good reason to weep.

Revolution in Panama drives out the president, and kills 11, including one American. Revolutions seem to be fashionable with our friends farther south. But that is their business, not ours. As long as they do not interfere with us, we should not interfere with them.

News from Nicaragua is our business. Rebels there killed eight American Marines, making 27 Marines killed by Nicaraguans in the last four years.

Just why our Marines were there, our government knows. The original proposition was that they would stay and help police the country until the new Nicaraguan government had been established. It seems to have taken a long time to become established.

Senator King, of Utah, wants our Marines brought out immediately and says we are "using bandits to hold up the investments of our capitalists."

No matter what we have been doing, something should be done now to persuade Nicaraguans responsible that it is a mistake to ambush and shoot American Marines that were not shooting anybody.

Next Tuesday you may hear from the Wickensham committee that has been discussing beer and such things.

The president will be told according to prediction that the commission would not repeal prohibition, but would get around it. They would advise modifying the Volstead act by opening the way for "beer, non-intoxicating in fact."

Perhaps the state will decide what kind of beer is "non-intoxicating in fact" in which case some states will have excellent beer.

Mussolini's talk on the radio, for which he learned how to make a speech in English, produces an excitement.

Compose Crew

CARRY CARGO OF MAIL, FOODSTUFFS

Hope To Demonstrate Commercial Value Of Project

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Carrying a pay load, Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieutenant William S. MacLaren hopped off at 5:50 a. m. (EST) today on the first lap of a projected trans-Atlantic flight to Paris, via Bermuda and the Azores.

The Bellanca monoplane Tradewind with Lieutenant MacLaren at the controls, sailed away from the Glenn H. Curtiss seaport at North Beach, Queens, circled the port once and headed out toward the tip of Long Island. It was followed a few minutes later by an escort plane, occupied by W. D. Campbell, E. M. Smith and C. J. Strickland, which will accompany the fliers several hundred miles.

The plane was loaded with 200 pounds of foodstuffs in an effort to demonstrate that ocean flying can be put on a commercial basis. The total distance by Lieutenant MacLaren's reckoning is 4,211 miles, including 649 miles to Hamilton, 2,042 miles to Horta and 1,520 miles to Paris.

Mrs. Hart Licensed
Mrs. Hart is a widow and one of the few women to hold an unlimited transport license, having been taught to fly by Lieutenant MacLaren. He is a graduate of Annapolis.

COPELAND SEES NO RELIEF FROM RAIN SHORTAGE

Weather Data For Last Year Compiled By U. S. Observer

MILLPORT, Jan. 3.—No relief from water shortage is in sight, according to L. H. Copeland, cooperative observer for the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Copeland today declared that the old year closed with 204 days of drought. The smallest crop in the history of Columbiana county was harvested.

Total Rainfall 28.35 Inches
During 1930 there was a total rainfall of 28.35 inches, this being the driest year since 1908, which, at that period, had a total rainfall of 27.58 inches. The year 1893 was the wettest with a rainfall of 51.10 inches. The normal annual rainfall is 37 inches.

January in 1930 was the coldest month with a mean temperature of 27.4 and Jan. 23, last, was the coldest of the old year when 15 below zero was registered. July 21 last was the warmest in 1930 when the temperature stood at 100.

Feb. 26 last, was the wettest day of the year when 1.61 inches of rain fell, and the greatest range of temperature in a given 24 hours last year was July 18 when there was a change ranging noted of 50 degrees.

November was the driest month with but 1.05 inches of rain. The total snowfall for 1930 was 20 inches which is below normal.

Early Spring, Late Fall
The year 1930 had an early spring and a beautiful late fall, with no killing frosts until Oct. 29.

Mr. Copeland declared. There was a noticeable absence of electric storms last year. December last was noted for its evenness of temperature, there being little change between day and night.

Creator Of Cell

Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland has revealed his startling secrets concerning artificially created cells to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The savant has experimented in combining cells, the tiny units of which form the bodies of animals, to produce a cell-like unit, the energy of which might be used in combating cancer.

His development has been a nation-wide topic of discussion following its introduction to leading scientists at the Cleveland conference of the organization.

"PAPA" JOFFRE SUCCUMBS AFTER VALIANT FIGHT

Last Of Great French Leaders Would Have Been 79 Sunday

KIN AT BEDSIDE AS DEATH COMES

Failed To Rally From Coma Which Began Thursday

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, Jan. 3.—Death came today to Marshal Joffre, last of the great French military leaders of the great war, after a fortnight's illness in which it was necessary to amputate his left leg. The marshal would have been 79 years old tomorrow.

The end was peaceful. Three members of his family, Mme. Joffre, his son-in-law, M. Lafite, and his brother, Ferdinand, General Issaly, his chief of staff, Colonel Desmazes of his staff, his doctors and a few others were present. He died without coming out from the coma which closed over him at noon Thursday, his life gradually ebbing since.

Newspapers Informed
The announcement was made at 8:30 a. m. A member of his military household, Captain Saint Cernin, pale with emotion, emerged from the hospital and in a husky voice telling newspapermen: "The marshal is dead, gentlemen." He displayed a bulletin signed by the marshal's physicians, which set the end at 8:23 a. m.

Shortly afterward Professor Leriche, Strasbourg specialist who came to Paris to treat the ailment which finally cut the marshal's life short, appeared and informing the newspapermen of the circumstances of the death, added that the marshal had been in a state of coma practically all this week except for rare intervals of five or ten minutes lucidity.

Despite the early hour a crowd already had assembled outside the hospital. When information of the death was passed to the newspapermen the word "mort"—death—passed through the crowd. Men bared their heads and women made the sign of the cross.

News Spreads Rapidly
The news spread rapidly through Paris, where death had been expected for more than a week. Bells tolled and official circles made preparations for honors in death due the man who in 1914 turned the invaders back from the very gates of Paris in the epic battle of the Marne.

His death removes from the world stage all save three of the great military leaders of the World War, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and General Erich Ludendorff, of Germany, and General John J. Pershing, of the United States. Of the French leaders of note, only Marshal Petain, defender of Verdun, still lives, but, unlike Foch or Joffre, he never was in supreme command of the French armies. One by one, Haig, Cadorna, Foch and others have passed from the scene.

Premier Steeg was the first to arrive at the hospital after announcement of the marshal's death. He

HOPE TO AVOID EXTRA SESSION
Senate Leaders Confident Business Can Be Completed

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Senate administration leaders expressed confidence today, even in the face of new opposition threats, that the necessary business of congress could be completed by March 4, and an extra session avoided.

An impression was current there would be a statement shortly from President Hoover on his intentions regarding the world court. Leaders have held that a definite assurance he would not call a special session for its ratification would simplify disposal of the legislative program.

The new eastern railroad consolidation plan had brought a fresh extra session threat from Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, who said he would "do all I can to force an extra session to obtain ratification" unless the house passed the Coughlin resolution to suspend all rail unification for a period.

Recommendations Listed By Bureau Of Inspection

DAVIDSON, MALLOY RECEIVE REPORTS

Findings To Be Submitted To City Council Tuesday

Need for immediate fire protection for outlying districts of the City of Salem through the addition of at least two new firemen and the purchase of additional fire-fighting equipment was outlined in recommendations received today by Mayor J. M. Davidson and Fire Chief V. L. Malloy from the Ohio Inspection bureau.

The report, based on investigations conducted here recently by H. J. Manning, chief engineer of the state bureau, will be submitted to city council when the legislative body convenes for its first meeting in 1931, next Tuesday. Immediate action on the recommendations will be asked by Malloy, the fire chief announced today.

Submitted to Mayor, Chief
The recommendations were submitted to the mayor and fire chief by T. B. Sellers, Ohio Inspection bureau manager. The present system of fire protection for the newly annexed areas of the municipality was declared inadequate, purchase of a new pump truck and the addition of new firemen being suggested by Sellers as the best solution to the present situation.

"In his recent annexation of additional territory to the City of Salem, an inspection has been assumed which is not particularly easy to fit into the existing circumstances," Sellers' report stated. "The possibility of afflicting these areas fire protection equivalent to that accorded residential districts appears remote."

"It is also obvious," the report continues, "that the only really satisfactory solution is available through the extension of water mains of proper size to the new territory and the installation of a sufficient number of fire hydrants to cover the property located therein. This proposition is further complicated by the fact that there are no mains extending to the original

The striking figures in the World War who survived that terrible struggle, statesmen as well as military leaders, are passing one by one—Hals, Wilson, Diaz, Clemenceau, Foch, Von Tirpitz—and now "Papa" Joffre has answered the final call.

Joseph Jacques Joffre, marshal of France, was a product of the Ecole Polytechnique in Paris, the "West point of France," which he left to obtain a temporary appointment as a sublieutenant in the artillery corps engaged in defending Paris against the invading host in the Franco-Prussian war—a defense he saw, rendered vain and the victorious teutons tramping the streets of the French capital to force the treaty exacted by the iron chancellor—in the "Hall of Mirrors" at Versailles.

Following the war, Joffre resumed his studies in the Ecole Polytechnique from which he graduated and entered a regiment of engineers. He advanced, step by step, performing brilliantly in the French colonies, and the part he played in an expedition against Formosa brought him the decoration of a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. A long period of colonial service intervened before his return to France.

The second conflict early in the World war found Joffre backed almost to the walls of Paris. His retreat before the advancing Germans had been masterly, his resistance increasing day by day while the German offensive was weakening for the lack of energetic command. Thirty miles from Paris, Joffre halted, Gallieni began his counter-offensive and the retreating command under Joffre turned to advance against the enemy and, with the assistance of the English under Wilson, drove the army of Von Kluck back across the Marne. This was the first battle of the Marne, and the decisive victory won by him brought him the title of "Marshal of France," bestowed for the first time since the Franco-Prussian war, and he became commander-in-chief of the French armies. It brought him another title, that of "Papa Joffre," lovingly bestowed upon him by the millions of the soldiery of France.

Thus far, Joffre had to contend with alien enemies only, but almost from his elevation to commander-in-chief, he was compelled to fight not only the foreign invaders, but the fault-finding and criticism in the capital, and when the French command about Verdun was almost annihilated, he was superseded by Foch as commander-in-chief of the French army, the deposed commander being appointed "technical adviser to the government."

The marshal's great victory in France was that won on the Marne, but he had won another here in America, when he headed the military mission to the United States, following our entry into the war, to impress upon our people how greatly France had been led and her pressing need for man power. His victory here was in the winning of the hearts of the American people. In recognition of his services to France both at home and abroad, he was made one of the French academy's "forty immortals" and he was given the "Medaille Militaire," a much greater honor than the grand cross of the "Legion of Honor" bestowed upon him four years before.

The last ten years of his life were embittered by the controversy waged by certain so-called military experts, who urged that the credit for the victory of the Marne should go to Gallieni rather than to Joffre. The records, however, show that it was the orders which started the advance that swept the enemy before it and recognition for the victory and the honors it entailed went to him and history will probably leave the record as it stands today.

PERSONAL ASSURANCE

It has become almost a manifestation of naivete to express astonishment over anything accomplished by means of the radio, but exception is demanded by listeners who heard Premier Mussolini speak to a world audience New Year's day. It was impossible to avoid the realization that the occasion had double significance: It was a personal message from Italy's dictator to the world, and it was a forceful example of the new world acquaintanceship that the press and the radio have made possible.

Premier Mussolini spoke in English, clearly and with an obvious understanding of the language, which he has learned within the last few years. His message, intended to promote better understanding between Italy and the United States, was of similar import to the rest of the world. The responses that will be made to it as it is studied in newspapers or recalled through audible impressions probably will show a more urgent desire than ever to understand Italy and sympathize with the purposes of Premier Mussolini. He has been interviewed and described many times in such a way as to reflect discredit upon his policies in the sight of peace-loving people, but a few moments of speaking—personal assurance, as it were—help to discount unfavorable impressions existing without firm foundations.

"Neither I nor my government nor the Italian people desire to bring about a war," was the most important single sentence in Premier Mussolini's message. His personal reasons were: "I fought in the war as a soldier in the rank. . . I know what war means. . . In the years that have since elapsed and at the present time both as man and as head of the government, I have had before me a panorama of political, economic and moral consequences of the war. . . How can anyone suppose that with this twofold experience I would consider with anything but horror the prospect of another war even if it were to arise between two countries only? A war nowadays would inevitably become a general war. Civilization itself would be endangered."

Somehow or other when Il Duce speaks there is an inclination to believe him. International relationships may not be made any safer by the opportunity to get messages before the people by word of mouth, but at least they will become more direct.

What Others Say

LATIN AMERICA IN LEAGUE.
Few more significant signs of the times at Geneva have come from shores of Lake Lemana than the present sojourn of Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations in South America. Sir Eric is now in Argentina. He is enroute to Chile and Peru, and will thence proceed to Central America and Cuba. There is method in his wanderings.

Apart from the United States, four American states—Mexico, Brazil, Ecuador and Costa Rica—are not members of the League. Argentina's status has remained obscure for ten years. In the first trigon administration at Buenos Aires she joined the League, but her congress never ratified the action. An Argentinian delegation withdrew from the first general assembly at Geneva because the council refused to admit former enemy powers on the same footing as the allies—a situation long since remedied. But Argentina's position remains undefined. Nominally she is still in the League. Actually she takes no part in its affairs, but her dues for years are in arrears.

Sir Eric Drummond is bent not only upon clearing up Argentina's relationship with Geneva, but upon tightening up the League's notoriously creaking bolts elsewhere in Latin America. Naturally, too, the secretary general wants to look the new revolutionary governments in the face in Buenos Aires, Lima, La Paz, Rio de Janeiro and Guatemala City and ascertain if they are friendly or hostile. Also, he is sure to leave no stone unturned to secure the admission of Costa Rica, Ecuador and Mexico, in all of which countries new regimes, and possibly a new League psychology have come into existence since their respective governments decided to boycott Geneva.

It was just two years ago this week that the League attempted, but failed, to substitute a Geneva decision of a purely inter-American controversy for Pan-American arbitration. Bolivia and Paraguay were on the verge of war. The League council, meeting at Lugano, principally urged action looking to a peaceful settlement, but the Pan-American conference on conciliation and arbitration happened, a most providentially to be meeting in Washington.

Upon the strong appeal of Secretary of State Kellogg, both Bolivia and Paraguay accepted the good offices of the conference and eventually composed their differences. Justice requires it to be said that Geneva, throughout the intervening nine months of negotiation, lent its own influence in the direction of an arbitral settlement. But history will record that Bolivia and Paraguay stacked arms primarily in consequence of the pressure for peace exerted by their sister American republics.

The League of Nations is within its rights in seeking to link the Latin states of the New World ever closer to the covenant. Meantime, the 13 or 14 Americas, out of the

I have never been an active pall-bearer.

My favorite feminine name is Hope. A favorite masculine name is Michael. I am unable to use a pen without smudging my fingers. I'm far from a goody-goody but have a curious collection of old fashioned scruples instilled by a grandmother. And observed from purely sentimental reasons.

Mary Boland's my favorite comedienne. Ziegfeld and I have at least one telephone quarrel a year. After the last one he sent me a bottle of perfume. One of my intimates is H. T. I have never found a satisfactory shoe buttoner. Maybelle Manning has the most distinctive handwriting of any lady I know. The most indecipherable is that of Gilbert White, the portrait painter. I have a collection of safety razors. I was one of the first two reporters to interview the Wright brothers.

And I spoke of them as "impractical dreamers." The first city I ever visited was St. Joseph, Missouri. I have been in every city of importance in America save Portland, Maine. The most expensive hotel I ever stopped was The Whitehall in Palm Beach, Florida. My caricature is not on display at Sard's. The greatest reaction from anything I have written was about a Mexican shepherd in the Cosmo-politan. The article I thought best was printed in a Sunday newspaper and caused no comment whatever. I like to sleep in old houses with wind-creaking shutters.

The only tune I don't whistle off-key is "In the Good Old Summer-time." In strange hotels I eavesdrop on quarreling in an adjoining room. And I have listened in on some andies. The best of all was in The Biltmore in Los Angeles. I despise gambling and am a poor loser.

I received 3,187 cards last Christmas. The most polished gentleman I ever met was an international crook, now spending 20 years in British gaol. Nothing makes me laugh on the screen like Buster Keaton's "dead pan." I enjoy getting to a theatre early to watch the seating of the audience. But I want to be first out when the curtain falls.

When I become extremely agitated the sides of my neck break out in a rash. And my voice squeaks. I am continually stepping off curbs unexpectedly and biting my tongue. I wouldn't ride up to the top of the Chrysler building and look down for anything. Neither my wife nor I put. We speak our minds and forget it.

I read Ed Howe's Monthly from cover to cover regularly. Hiccups always frighten me. The man who saved me from disaster in the market crash was the late Will Hogg. He predicted it three years before it happened, to the very month.

I have been introduced to Charles M. Schwab three times—at a Rotary luncheon in Indianapolis, on the promenade at Monte Carlo and in the lobby of the Ritz, New York. Still he doesn't know me, which gives you an idea of my devastating personality. I believe the most promising composer of the moment is Sidney Romberg. The show enjoyed most this winter is "Grand Hotel." The book: Arnold Bennett's "Imperial Palace."

A young lady who saw me passing through the lobby of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco wrote: "You have about as much sex appeal as Lincoln's Gettysburg speech." The only people who have hawkeyed me are those I trusted. And I've always managed to even things. I do not believe New York theatres try to check the ticket speculating evil. Night clubs depress me. I chew five cakes of a gum at a time if nobody is looking.

For two years I have had a whopping standing offer for a 15 minute weekly talk over the radio. I am never without old-fashioned peppermint stick candy. My wife can always tell if I have had some unexpected windfall—the old McIntyre gleam. I'm an awful washout at dinner parties.

2,000 Realty Deals Listed During Year

LISBON, Jan. 3.—Approximately 2,000 real estate transfers were filed for record in Columbiana county during 1930, which is about 16 percent less than filings for 1929, according to County Recorder Paul H. Smith.

Between 9,000 and 10,000 chattel mortgages were placed in the files, and the record shows that 1,553 real estate mortgages were filed during the old year.

Recorder Smith will retire from office Monday next, and will be succeeded by Mrs. Edith Elliott, who was elected at the last November election.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Modern Life—A Lazy One

There is no doubt that man is a slave to machinery. If it brings leisure to those who labor, this marks a beneficial change. But there are certain mechanical devices in common use that may be detrimental to health.

DR. COPELAND

Modern living makes it possible for us to remain indoors all winter. City folks rarely go outdoors. The walk to the corner for the necessities is done away with and the ordering is done by telephone. With the advent of radio even entertainment is brought into our homes. Every thing favors the lazy life.

It is common knowledge that the health of the nation as a whole is lowered during the winter months. I do not believe that this state of affairs is due to the weather. More likely it is due to our habits during this period.

Even though our homes are light and airy, we do not derive the beneficial rays of the sun as we do during the summer months. Sitting in sunlight that is transmitted through the windowpane is of little value. Ordinary window glass does not transmit the invisible rays of sunlight which are so essential to health.

There has been an attempt to substitute quartz glass panes for the ordinary windowpane. Quartz glass transmits the ultra-violet portion of the sun's rays, a very desirable thing. As yet, for various reasons, the application of this theory has not been entirely practical.

Let us assume that I am correct in laying our poor health during the winter to our mode of living. If it is not due to the weather, how can we improve our health?

First, let me advise against overheating your home. The normal temperature of our bodies is about 98.6 F. The temperature indoors should not exceed 70 degrees. Regulate the temperature in your home to a constant level. Where possible do this in your office or the place in which you do your work. You will feel better for carrying out this program. Such a life will tune up your body to resist colds and infections.

Get as much of the outdoor sunshine as is possible. Leave the car in the garage at least part of the time.

There is a tendency to overeat in the winter time. It is true that food supplies the heat which is more in demand in winter. But this is no excuse for overeating. Eat a balanced diet, plenty of good food, but not too much.

There is no need of consuming large quantities of patent medicines during the winter. Your supply of lime, iron and phosphorus should be derived from your food stuffs and not from bottles. Eat plenty of green vegetables, fresh fruits and fresh milk. Salads should grace the table during the winter months as during the summer.

Above all do not blame the weather for your cold or illness. It is usually your own fault. Carelessness is the chief cause of illness.

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. O. E. Q.—Which is better for a convalescent, sleeping until 10 a. m. or an early morning auto drive?

A.—Early morning drive provided the patient can get proper sleep at night.

M. G. C. Q.—What are some of the nerve-building foods?

A.—Is it harmful to smoke two cigarettes daily if one is more or less nervous otherwise?

A.—Eat of a well-balanced diet and the nervous system will be properly nourished and taken care of. Eat more fruit and vegetables avoiding too much meat, as well as excessive tea and coffee.

2.—Not necessarily so but might be a good idea to stop the habit entirely, at least for a time and see whether or not there are any results.

MRS. H. L. Q.—What do you advise for hives?

A.—First correct your diet. A nervous condition, constipation, and, in some instances, a kidney condition may be responsible for hives. It would be well to have a urinalysis made.

H. U. U. Q.—What can I do for a red nose? It remains red both winter and summer.

2.—What can I do for blackheads and pimples?

A.—A red nose is usually due to circulatory condition caused by a run-down state of health. Try to build up your general health and you will probably notice an improvement.

2.—Your diet is important. Cut down on sugar, starches and coffee. Avoid constipation.

MRS. E. E. Q.—What causes nervousness? I have been nervous for seven years.

A.—Nervousness is caused by a run-down state of health. Try to build up your general health and you will probably benefit generally.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, January 4

Sunday's horoscope is a most interesting one, with many of the planetary configurations denoting lively and progressive conditions in many directions. Mystical, spiritual, and ecclesiastical matters are stressed, with prosperity and advancement promised. But there are important upheavals and changes imminent, accompanied by temporary setbacks or postponements. Be careful with papers and law.

Those whose birthday it is are at the crossroads of a most important time of life, with large matters at stake. Change, radical decisions, ambition and advancement loom on the immediate horizon, accompanied by stern oppositions and probable disappointments as well as personal annoyances. But it is a year of large opportunity and possibilities for achievement and prestige. A child born on this day should have a splendid assortment of talents and faculties fitting it for a prominent place in life.

For Monday, January 5

Monday's astrological forecast is quite a contradictory one, with good promise of favorable circumstances and opportunities, but these must be improved by wise judgment, clever methods and patient application and resistance to stubborn obstacles and frustration. However personal adaptability and popularity may assist over these obstructions and private pleasure and social activity offer the passing advantages.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of some opposition and conflicting conditions, with progress and prosperous issues dependent upon determination to overcome obstacles with fortitude and earnest effort, these assisted by cleverness and good judgment. Personal affiliations and popularity may prove compensatory, as social, domestic and romantic affairs will be lively and happy. A child born on this day should be endowed with many social and humane qualities and graces which should assist it to overcome obstacles and difficulties.

ALLIANCE RALLIES TO DEFEAT QUAKERS IN OVER-TIME CONTEST

THE DAY In Sports

WHAT WILL 1931 BRING?
IN THE GOLFING WORLD

Like Alexander, Robert Tyre Jones had no more words to conquer. He left amateur golf for the talking movies, will now be forced to pay income tax and leaves the realm of amateur golf with hopes of dislodging to addicts of the game another super-golfer during the season of 1931. The retirement of the supreme master leaves the game in an interesting condition and Americans look forward to 1931 with anticipation of an unusual period of golfing entertainment. The national amateur championships, scheduled at the Beverly Hill country club, Chicago, in September, will bring out all the amateur stars of the country, intent on succeeding the pudgey Atlanta barrister on the championship throne. The U. S. Open will be played over the course of the Inverness club at Toledo with 1,400 expected. But Bobby will in all probability not be among the competitors.

What will 1931 bring in the field of other athletic competition? Is the question now being asked by boxing promoters, football experts, baseball magnates and participants and all other lines of sporting endeavor. If the present year reaches the great success of 1930 in the majority of sports, all will be satisfied. Even the most critical of public fans can't be pessimistic about happenings in 1930, for, with the exception of boxing, it was a great 12 months in the United States have just passed through.

H. H. Ramsay, America's high golfing official, predicts the greatest season in history of the game for 1931 with both champions certain to be crowned both here and abroad. The Salem Golf club will have a banner year, Donald McLeay, professional, promises, for its members are now keeping in trim with practice sessions at "Mac's" indoor golf school and driving course. In all sports there will be changes, for better, mostly.

There are bound to be developments in college football. The logic of the coaches who assembled at New York in their annual meeting cannot be denied and their initiative actions in demands for changes in the game's playing code will have their effect. The cruelest words spoken at the meeting came when Hugo Bezdek said, "Coaches must take steps to correct football evils or have reforms thrust upon them." This is irrevocably true. It is the coach that must act or the professor of languages or biology who probably is a member of the college council and has much power in school activities will soon have his scepter over athletics and weak have with this our greatest fall and winter sport. Nons knows the game better than the coach, so it should be the coach that has authority to make changes where changes are needed in football.

Baseball last year suffered only slightly from its popularity of preceding seasons. The year 1931 will see the stadia crowded once again, the parks will be jammed with thousands of enthusiasts and the game will prosper.

Sayings that will go down in history—"Rules will not change or wipe out proselytizing and subsidization of football players"—that change must come from the heart and not the rule book.

We in Salem look forward to another banner year in Salem High athletics. With Coach Floyd Stone directing the school's athletic destinies, its teams have gone through a three year period with great success. Joe M. Kelley at the Memorial building is directly responsible for the popularity of city league athletic activities and both city and scholastic sporting events will increase in both popularity and worth in the coming year.

Salem Loses Decision By 28-25 Score After Leading Entire Game

Handicapped by disqualification of two of its outstanding stars, by the personal foul rule, Salem High, after outplaying the opposition for more than two periods, lost a nerve-racking contest to the powerful Alliance High quintet by a 28-25 score at Barnes auditorium in Alliance Friday night.

A three-minute overtime period was necessary to decide the verdict, the game closing with the teams knotted at 23-23. Salem held the lead in scoring throughout the contest and was ahead, 15-1, at the end of the first half.

Out of this setback, in which the Stomenen distinctly demonstrated that they are yet to be heard from in Northeastern Ohio basketball, rose Tommy French as one of Coach Floyd W. Stone's outstanding hardwood artists. French was the Red and Black's leading performer on both offense and defense and stood out head and shoulders above any player on the court even in defeat.

Smith, Early Out On Fouls. William (Bill) Smith and Norman Early, Salem forward and center, respectively, were ejected from the contest on four personal fouls early in the fourth period and then on Alliance staged a spurt that soon advanced the home-town stars as a real threat for victory honors. The Quakers, however, maintained their lead until the last minute of play but were out-lucked and outplayed.

Play in the extra period was merely a formality. Alliance holding a decided edge after the disqualification of Early and Smith. A field goal and a foul 30 seconds after over-time was under way gave Alliance a three-point lead but French brought hopes to Salem's fandom with a long shot from the center of the floor. It was Salem's last basket, the Stark countians connecting for two more foul points to clinch the verdict.

The first half was clearly all Salem. Alliance never threatening the Quakers at any time of 16 minutes.

Salem Quintet Winner In 24-23 Contest Played As Preliminary

Salem High's fast-stepping reserve quintet nosed out the Alliance junior varsity, 24-23 in a hard-fought preliminary at Alliance Friday night.

The Quakers led throughout the contest, Alliance never being able to overcome a slight lead the Salemites piled up early in the contest. The visitors' margin never exceeded four points, a rally by Alliance closing the gap late in the game.

Gordy Scullion's floor work was one of the features of the battle, while Frank Culler and Pauline scored on offensive work for the winners.

Relations Resumed As County Rivals Clash In Important Battle

Salem and East Liverpool, principals in every Columbiana county basketball championship race for years up until two seasons ago, resume athletic relationship in three contests scheduled at the Salem High gymnasium tonight. Reserve varsity and girls' teams representing the rivals clash during the evening's program.

Liverpool, performing in two games, one against an alumni machine and the second last night against Rayen High of Youngstown, is boasting a combination that looms as a great threat to Salem. High's ambitions of attaining another county title. Under the tutelage of Tom Dixon, former Susquehanna college court luminary, the Ceramic Cityans will invade the Quaker gym the under-dogs but claim an equal chance in the contest.

Potters Trim Alumni. The Potters defeated its ex-high opponents, 19-15 in two overtime periods last Saturday, showed up strong on defense but were null and void on offense. McNutt, a letterman of 1928 who was out of school last year, looks as the best of Dixon's forwards while Jimmy Bowen, another veteran, is touted as a great offensive player, too. Tom Snape, link center, will be pitted against the Quaker gym the under-dogs but claim an equal chance in the contest.

The Potters anticipate a hard-fought tussle tonight, it being the first major game involving county opponents this season.

The last game played between Salem and Liverpool cage teams was played in the fore part of the 1928-29 season. Salem winning a close battle which ended when former Coach Joe Hurst withdrew his Liverpool quintet from the court in protest to a decision made by Referee Gross of New Philadelphia. Salem High holds five consecutive county championships.

Reserves Favored. The reserve game will be the first played, Coach Floyd Stone anticipating a victory over the Potters in this contest also. Against the Canfield varsity the youthful Quaker combine showed great power in rolling up a 34-13 score. Gordy Scullion, Lawrence Weigand, Purn Sidinger and Judy Julian starting. Coach Esther Peterson's sextet will be seen in action for the first time against Ceramic City girls' team in the main preliminary. With Susan Lutsch, Connie Tice, Roberta Ward, Ruth Jones and other stars of the 1929-30 combination back, a powerful team will be placed on the court by Miss Peterson.

corporation limits which are of satisfactory size to serve as feeders for lines extending to the newly annexed territories and any money expended in extending the present, under-sized lines, would be practically wasted as far as fire protection service is concerned.

4-Inch Water Mains
Explaining Sellers' point, Malloy said today that water mains extending to the old corporation lines are only four-inch lines. In order to come up to state requirements the mains should be at least six inches in diameter, the four-inch lines being of insufficient size to provide water for long distances, he declared.

"As far as we could learn," Sellers added, "the possibility of extending water service, at least at this time, is remote, and the city's immediate concern is to provide something in the way of additional fire department facilities which will permit operating to the best advantage under existing unfavorable conditions."

The proposition of revamping the Robinson combination chemical and hose truck for use to provide increased chemical facilities in the outlying areas was opposed on the basis that "the truck has now reached the age where breakdowns of a major and dangerous nature may occur. The old Robinson, re-equipped with chemical tanks, will be of little increased value, particularly in the outlying sections as almost without exception a pumper is needed to produce effective direct hose streams."

Suggests New Apparatus
"Taking the above into consideration, it is our suggestion that the city purchase a good substantial piece of apparatus equipped with a booster pump of not less than 600 gallons per minute capacity, a clear water tank of between 100 and 200 gallons capacity and a body sufficient to carry 1,000 ft. of 2 1/2-in. hose, and the required number of ladders."

"The present force of firemen stationed at fire headquarters was declared in the report, inadequate condition of the fire department a handicap, the safety of other sections, especially the high value districts where serious fires are likely to occur, is very seriously menaced when practically all equipment must be called out to give some measure of protection in outlying sections."

"It is also our opinion that the running of two machines to the district where no city water supplies are available is of little advantage. With the undermanned condition of the fire department a handicap, the safety of other sections, especially the high value districts where serious fires are likely to occur, is very seriously menaced when practically all equipment must be called out to give some measure of protection in outlying sections."

JOFFRE, WORLD WAR HERO, DIES

Last Of Great French Leaders Would Have Been 79 Sunday

was followed by Colonel Fabry, former Joffre aide, and Jean Chippie, prefect of police, Ambassador Edge, accompanied by Norman D. Armour, first secretary of the embassy, called shortly before the arrival of President Doumergue, General Gouraud and Marshal Pétain.

Body To Lie In State
Colonel Desmazes announced soon after death that the body would be embalmed and lie in state at the chapel of the Ecole Militaire, the French military academy. He said that the last absolution was given the marshal at 8 a. m. by Chaplain Bellesœur, when it was seen death was imminent.

Marshal Joffre's final illness dated back many weeks, when complaining of a pain in his leg his doctors found him a victim of arteritis. In his case the disease, which brings an inflammation of the arteries, settled in his legs and eventually a gangrenous condition developed which necessitated amputation.

On Dec. 19 he was taken secretly to the hospital Saint Jean de Dieu and that night, under the influence of local anæsthesia only, he submitted to amputation of mid-high of his left leg. He would not take either, informing the physicians he wished to see what they were doing to him.

Illness Becomes Known
His illness did not become known until the following week, when his doctors let it be known they had no hope for him and did not expect him to live more than a day or so at the most. Despite their pessimism the old soldier survived, much of the time in coma and semi-consciousness, his heart refusing to give in to illness which would have taken most men many times over.

He gradually weakened after assisting the physicians with his resistance. He lived for days after they had stated that he had only hours, or even minutes more of life. On New Year's day he lapsed into the final coma from which he never recovered and at one time that day was so low that a false announcement of his death was made only to be retracted an hour later after having been spread over all the world.

He was kept alive during the last few days by injections of heavy doses of a serum which his physicians prepared. Had he been able to stand another operation his right leg also would have been amputated but it was feared the shock would precipitate death.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL

THERE is Work and Prosperity ahead in 1931 . . . We are received into the abundant embrace of a new decade. The band strikes up in a major key.

The Thirties, overflowing with untold secrets, sing out promises of peace; of health and wealth and beauty. The mood of our nation, from sea to sea, echoes a justified optimism. Doors are closed to the chronic malcontents.

Extensive though our territories, we have room only for those who hope, and those who strive to fulfill their hopes. If there must be a struggle, let's call it a game and play it like sportsmen. If there must be obstacles, let's rejoice in our power to vault them. We have limitless material to work with; we have the tools; we have strong bodies; skillful hands, rich minds. It remains for us but to will it, and Prosperity will shower us with her favors.

We are just beginning to tap our mines, forests, fields and waters. Agriculture is regaining its stability. The farmer, long discouraged, has himself expressed a new confidence.

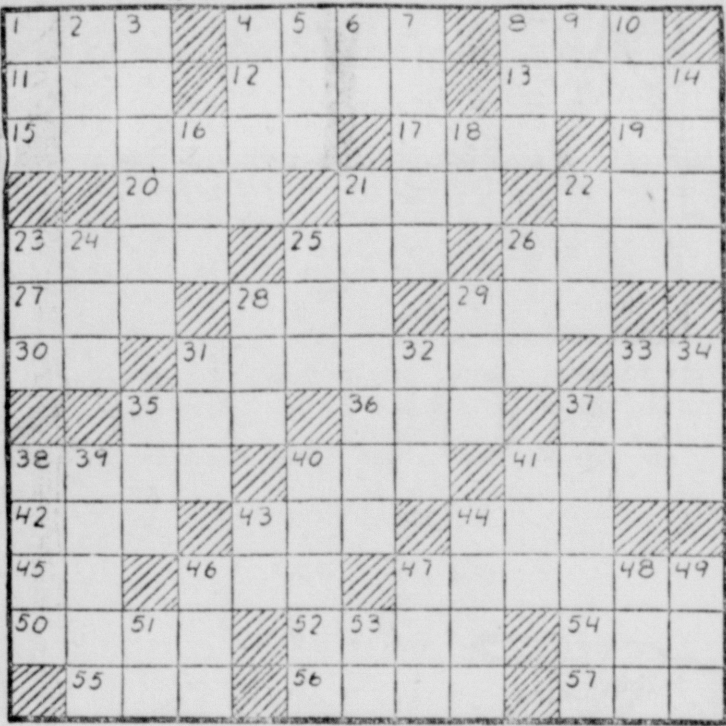

The large industrial corporations are following a program of expansion. The railroads and the banks are notably sound. Methods of production and distribution are constantly improving. Standards of living are being constantly raised. There are facts!

They represent conditions which we shall mould into a future more glorious than our most glorious past. Our assured prosperity will be a stepping-stone to the New World paradise of which our ancestors dreamed.

MOVIES

In Talkie Role

Kay Johnson plays the leading role in two talking features scheduled in Salem theaters next week.

"The Spoilers", talkie version of the silent drama famous for its realistic fight scenes and recently released by Hollywood for production in American playhouses, will be shown at the Grand theater next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The drama, produced by Paramount, stars Gary Cooper, Kay Johnson and Betty Compson. Kay Johnson, who has had one of the most meteoric rises in talkies in the history of synchronized productions, appears as the leading feminine player in two talking vehicles, playing, in addition to the "Spoilers", in "Madame Satan", Reginald Denny, who appeared in talkies for the first time in "Three Little French Girls" is cast opposite Miss Johnson in the second drama, scheduled at the State Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Together with "Madame Satan" and "The Spoilers", the State and Grand will feature two other highly rated pictures, "The Princess and the Plumber", returning Charles Farrell to the screen in another romantic role, will show at the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday, while "Anybody's War", with Moran and Mack, the noted comedy duo starred, will be at the State three days starting Thursday.

"Madame Satan" pictures Miss Johnson as a society bell who marries Denny, a harum-scarum youngster who tries, but does everything except settle down to work. Denny, seldom at home, is finally abandoned by his wife who then wages a campaign to win him back from an actress-dancer, played by Lillian Roth. Roland Young, as Denny's partner in many misadventures, has a leading part also. "The Spoilers" is a classic pictureization of Rex Beach's famous book. William Boyd, Harry Green, James Kirkwood, Slim Sumner, Oscar Apfel and other famous screen stars appear in the drama.

"Anybody's War" Moran and Mack's experiences in the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War are recounted in "Anybody's War". Joan Peers and Neil Hamilton head the romantic theme of the picture which is built almost entirely about the humorous partners with the love drama woven into the picture to add much to its entertaining values.

Maureen O'Sullivan, who first gained for herself a place in the talkie limelight by her performance opposite John McCormack in the latter's screen debut, plays opposite Farrell in "Princess and the Plumber". Miss O'Sullivan, is the title indicates, is princess with Farrell playing the part of a plumbing engineer sent to the heroine's home in the Balkans to make improvements in the castle.

The Royal again schedules a western thriller, this time Hoot Gibson being starred in "Trigger Tricks".

"War Nurse" will make its final stay here tonight and is entertainment of outstanding value at the State "The Squealer", showing Jack Holt in a gangster picture, is at the Grand.
